

Health & Safety Management – Extending the CDM Co-ordination Function

GHP Consultancy has long-held the belief that the Planning Supervisor function offered the design and construction of a project, far greater scope than previous CDM Legislation required; even with the changes to the legislation, there is opportunity to manage Health & Safety even more closely by co-ordinating the Design, Tender and Construction management systems.

By understanding your Company's policies and principles of working, we can assist in implementing a management system in which there is a Health & Safety Plan developed at different stages throughout the project; pre-design, pre-tender and into the Construction Phase Health & Safety Plan as required by the demands of a particular project.

The resultant effect is a transparent and easily auditable Health & Safety Management System, which is unique to your Company; a management system, the like of which has been highlighted by the Health & Safety Executive as a model of Best Practice for several of GHP Consultancy's Clients.

The system works for you and your employees/contractors while still fulfilling all the requirements of the law; offering you absolute best value!

The system is presented in three key stages;

1. Pre-Design

Health & Safety, Environmental, and Construction constraints information are fed into the design process.

2. Pre-Tender

In the form of a comprehensive plan, which addresses all of the significant hazards likely to be encountered on-site.

3. Construction Phase

In the form of a number of folders presented in a robust archive filing system, which presents the Site Manager with an easy-to-use, transparent and auditable system, which will monitor and manage all Health, Safety & Environmental issues on-site throughout the life of the project.

Our experienced team will prepare the initial Construction Phase Health & Safety Plan from the developed H&S Plan plan, reducing the administrative burden on you, while you concentrate on your core expertise! This isn't just an "off-the-shelf" product, this is your specific, developed plan prepared by us and delivered direct to your site prior to the commencement of construction works.

During the Construction Phase, GHP Consultancy will continue to monitor the implementation & management of the plan by your Production/Site Manager, with site visits to ensure that all paperwork is being used/managed/filed correctly and addressing any concerns/questions the site team may have; this is also another mechanism to ensure that your corporate procedures/policies are being successfully implemented at site level.
